IRON WORKERS RECORDS TO BE WELL EXAMINED

Indianapolis, April 25.—All the members of the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers were summoned before the grand jury and reported at 2 o'clock.

The president of the organization, Frank M. Ryan, was ordered to produce the books and other records of the association and he sent nearly a carload over to the court house. Many of the records have been removed to the police station.

The attorney of the iron workers made an effort to replevin these records from the hands of the police, but was met by the court with the statement that there is no law in Indiana by which evidence can be taken away from a grand jury or even records into which it is looking for the purpose of ferreting out crime. Among the books taken by the police were pass books for five years of J. J. McNamara, the secretary-treasurer, and it is said that these show sums paid out mysteriously when taken in connection with the check stub showing for what and to whom the amounts were paid.

The police would not admit, however, that the check stubs give them any clew to McNamara's connection with the dynamiting for which he is under arrest and now on his way to California. It developed that J. D. Forrest, general manager of the Citizens' Gas company here, was the first man to direct the attention of detectives to the iron workers' organization as being engaged in the dynamiting outrages throughout the country.

"The first job McNamara's alleged wrecking crew is supposed to have done in Indianapolis was at the plant of the Citizens' Gas company about Sept. 1, 1909," said Mr. Forrest. "Two large sticks of dynamite were discharged by time fuses at the base of the columns supporting the overhead coal bin that supplies the coke ovens. The structure was then nearly completed, and it was evidently the design of the wreckers to cause it to topple over.

"Fortunately the supporting columns rested on heavy bed plates, and it was the thickness of these bed plates that prevented the explosion from destroying the concrete foundations. The damage done by this explosion to the structure itself was not great, but the delay and the incidental expenses connected with the outrage threw on the gas company an expense of at least $25,000."

The Citizens' Gas company then employed a local private detective to attempt to discover the persons who perpetrated the crime. This detective fell in with a gang of structural iron workers; who Mr. Forrest says he feels certain from evidence gathered, did the work. Later Mr. Forrest received reliable information, he says, that made him feel positive that J. J. McNamara was the man who directed the work at the gas company's plant and elsewhere. It would have cost the Citizens' Gas company $25,000 to get the complete information and Mr. Forrest says for that reason the effort to bring McNamara to justice was dropped temporarily by the company. However, after the Los Angeles Times explosions Mr. Forrest was asked by the authorities at Los Angeles to give them what information he had.

INTERESTING REPORTS OF PARISH AID

April 20 marked the 35th anniversary since its reorganization of the Parish Aid society, the oldest and largest society of St. Luke's. The society, founded by the women of the church in 1863 under the direction of late rector, Rev. John A. Wilson, disbanded after six years of successful effort; it was again reorganized in 1876 and has remained steadily at work since that time—a remarkable record. Mrs. Gilbert was a chartered member from its beginning. Her words have a deeper meaning to all, since she has passed away, after long years of loving service, to carry forward the work so well begun by many of those faithful ones now 'at rest,' and of whom today the church is justly proud. "God buries his workmen, but the work goes on." It may be said of her and of others, "Her face was a thanksgiving for her past life and a love letter to all mankind."

This society held its 34th annual meeting since its reorganization in the church house parlors, March 31, 1910. The rector opened the society in the usual devotional order and all joined in the singing of the hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds." Mr. Gardam then gave in his own nice way a few encouraging and complimentary remarks regarding the work of the year just finished. Mrs. DaRatt, directress, presided over the business meeting and the annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were received and accepted.

A fine musical program was greatly enjoyed, after which the election of officers took place. The worthy directress. Mrs. J. W. DaRatt, was reelected unanimously. Mrs. H. L. Ostrander, vice-directress; Mrs. Swaine secretary; Mrs. Thomas Creech, treasurer. Light refreshments were then passed and a pleasant social time enjoyed until early evening when adjournment followed.

"This present year," says the secretary in her report, "can hardly be said to have been exceptionally eventful or very successful in a money point of view, not from lack of interest or purpose; but force of circumstances is the only reason that our treasury has been somewhat lower than in former years. Money, we all know, is a golden means for much good, but it is not the only thing to strive for. The social side should not be lost sight of. "To meet and mingle" is our watchword. "Greet the friends by name."

We have had during the year of 9 months 10 monthly meetings, with an average attendance of 12, and an enrollment of 58 members. Not all the members whose names are recorded can attend the meetings, but show their interest and willingness by paying the annual membership fee and by responding so generously when called upon for provisions or money or help from this society.

The Reaper Death visited our little band of workers, Oct. 5, 1910, and took from our midst one whom we all revered and loved, Mrs. Harriet Gilbert, an irreparable loss to this society and St. Luke's church. She was our directress for many years, though declined office of late. She kept in touch and her interest never wavered. Her many acts of love and her beautiful Christian life and character are to well known to need comment. November 1, 1910, Miss Kate Ferrier died. So unexpected was her sweet young life brought to a close. She sleeps in lovely memories. Then Mrs. Chas. McCormick died in May, 1910. One of the first charterer members of the old days, she showed her love and loyalty in a very generous way to St. Luke's church, of which she was a faithful member. In December, 1910, Miss Lydia Spencer died. Another irreparable loss to this society and to the whole church she served so long and so well. Her many virtues are well known to us all, and the lesson these beautiful Christian lives teach

King's Daughters Observe Anniversary

PLEASANT SESSION AT RAWSONVILLE CHURCH ENJOYED BY MEMBERS.

The Do What You Can Circle of the King's Daughters on Sunday afternoon celebrated the 25th anniversary of the founding of their order with an open meeting in the M. E. church in Rawsonville. A good attendance was indicative of wide interest in and appreciative of the kind activities of the ladies composing the order, for the especial work to which they devote themselves is the dispensing of small and valued charities.

Miss Jeannette Waterbury gave an account of the origin of the King's Daughters and a resume of its history. It was founded, she said, in 1886 by ten women in New York. The first year the order grew from these 10 to 70,000, and its growth has continued steadily, until now the order and its good work may be encountered in places all over the civilized world. The local order numbers 56. It was started in Rawsonville and vicinity in November, 1890, by a young woman from North Dakota who was a teacher in the district school. She left the vicinity after a little and then Miss Waterbury took her place and has been in charge ever since.

Mrs. William Scotney spoke on "The Little Silver Cross," alluding to the badge worn by the members.

Miss Ida Thumm sang a solo, with Miss Mildred Gotts at the organ. The music was in charge of Mrs. Henry Stumpenhusen.

PLANS FOR OBSERVANCE OF TUBERCULOSIS DAY

The local Anti-Tuberculosis society is planning to join the societies of other cities in the observance of Tuberculosis Day next Sunday. Elaborate preparations have been made in Detroit and other cities for this celebration. The design of the day is to bring the matter of the ravages of tuberculosis and its prevention by means within the reach of all to the attention of the public. Several of our local churches are to unite in a service next Sunday evening at the Congregational church which will be addressed by Dr. Guy L. Kiefer, health officer of Detroit, on the subject, "The Gospel of Fresh Air." Dr. Kiefer is not merely a thorough student of this matter from a theoretical point of view but also has proctical experience of the widest and most varied kind. It is hoped our citizens will show their interest in this movement by their attendance at this meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Anti-Tuberculosis association will be held at the Ladies' Library on Friday evening of this week at 7:30. Reports of the year's work will be made and officers elected for the ensuing year. All interested are invited to attend.

PRES. DIAZ HOPEFUL

El Paso, Texas, April 25.—Interest in the peace situation at Gen. Madero's camp today is centered in the hope that word may have come from the Mexican government of the appointment of its commissioners for the conference at which it seems almost certain terms of peace in Mexico will be agreed upon. The insurrecto commander, it is understood, is ready to announce his appointees as soon as the government representatives are named.

El Paso will probably be the meeting place for the peace commissioners.

Peace negotiations, it is expected, will consume at least a fortnight..

Concerning the situation President Diaz says, "I am convinced that conditions of peace, interrupted for the moment, will return to Mexico, and that all Mexicans will unite with the single purpose of furthering the development and progress of the country."

SICK MAN DIES IN FLAMES

Aged Farmer Perishes When Fire Destroys His Home.

Vicksburg, Mich., April 25.—Sick and alone in his home, John Seil, a Prussian farmer, aged about seventy years, was burned to death when his small house, four miles southwest of here, caught fire and was destroyed. Neighbors who saw the fire from a distance thought it was a straw stack burning and did not discover that Seil's house had burned until several hours later.

The old man's badly charred body was found lying near the burned door, showing that he had made an attempt to crawl out and escape the fire. One of the neighbors who visited Seil the previous night says there was no fire or light in the house when he left and they are puzzled over the origin of the fire and how Seil's dog, which was in the house, escaped. Seil had no relatives in this country.

FATALLY SHOT BY BANDIT

LaSalle Saloon Keeper, However, Mortally Wounds the Robber.

LaSalle, Ill., April 25. — Kiler Zubouski, a Polish saloon keeper, lying wounded in a hospital here with death appearing near at hand, told a graphic story of a fight with a robber who tried to rob Zubouski's saloon, and of his victory over the bandit after he himself had been probably mortally wounded.

"The robber came into my saloon and chased the men who were there one side," said Zubouski. "Then he ordered me to give him the money in the cash register. I made a rush for him around the end of the bar, and he shot me. I knew I was hit, but the bullet didn't weaken me, and I grabbed him by the neck. I choked him till he dropped the revolver, and then I let go of him and grabbed the weapon. I shot him several times." The bandit, who was masked and whose name was not learned, was wounded several times and faces death in the same hospital in which his intended victim is fighting death.

INVADERS' PLANS ARE NIPPED IN THE BUD-THREE TAKEN

San Juan, P. R., April 25.—Government officials have arrested Former President Morales and Former Vice President Jiminez, of San Domingo, together with Zenon Torribiz, of the same country, on a charge of preparing in this island to organize a military expedition against the Dominican republic. Papers and documents seized at a hotel led to the arrests.

When the prisoners were arraigned the hearing was postponed and the men held in $7,500 bond each.

EMBANKMENT GIVES AWAY-HORSE DROWNED

An accident occurred Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock which resulted in the loss of a horse valued at $150. As has been the custom for a number of years Arthur J. Dean (colored) was drawing loads of ashes and rubbish and dumping it on the river band in the rear of residences on So. Huron street. Monday night he had a heavy load which he was intending to dump in the rear of Mrs. Jeanette Campbell's home. He drove too near the edge and the dirt began to give way. The horse which was a rather nervous one, became frightened and horse and wagon together rolled over and over down the steep embankment into the river.

Part of the wagon was left on the bank and the horse with the harness and thills attached succeeded in wading along for a short distance when, it is thought, the lines became caught on something in the river bed and the horse was caught in the current and drowned. The body was recovered last night.

The driver who was not on the load at the time escaped without injury.

He left the government service to go with the Equitable when Paul Morton resigned from the Roosevelt cabinet to become president of that company.

CROSS ST. BRIDGE IS APPROVED BY COUNCIL

The bridge committee met Monday with W. A. Hey, superintendent of construction for the Advance Construction Company of Waukesha, Wisconsin, and accepted the new Cross street bridge, in so far as the work was concerned. There is still to be adjusted the matter of paying the inspector for extra time during November, December and in the spring. The aldermen on this committee have, without exception, expressed themselves as thoroughly pleased with the new structure. The work has proceeded with perfect harmony, owing to Mr. Hey's masterly handling of the situation and tactful treatment of the workmen, and he leaves the community with many friends behind.

The bridge committee have thus expressed themselves:

Ald. Ament: "We looked it over last week and found it all right. The engineer who came out thought it was as good a job as he ever looked at. The Advance Construction Co. are fine people to deal with. They have left the banks and sodding in good shape. I cannot see where it could be bettered."

Ald. Mellencamp: "I am satisfied that we have a well-built bridge of which the city of Ypsilanti may be proud. I thought at the time the bridge committee recommended the awarding of the contract to the Advance Construction Co. that they were making a wise choice, and during the construction have had no reason for feeling otherwise. I believe we have had the best advice through our Consulting Engineer, Benj. L. Douglass, and the most painstaking conscientious service from the inspector, Mr. Foreman. Much credit is due Mr. Hey, who has had entire charge of the construction. He has proven himself a thoroughly competent bridge man, as is shown by the result which he has obtained."

Ald. McDermott: "I thing it is a fine bridge. I think no one could have done a nicer job."

Ald. Huston: "I am well satisfied with the bridge."

Ald. Norton: "We think we have the finest bridge in the country. We are satisfied that they have given us a good job. They have not tried to shirk anything."

This bridge, about which there is such unanimity of opinion, was begun July 10, 1910, and opened Dec. 1, 1910, for traffic, although the team traffic was delayed only 10 weeks. It was built at a cost of $22,000. If the prime essential of a bridge is durability, this bridge possesses that essential. Age will but harden and strengthen as well as whiten the structure, to the vicissitudes of weather, water, and air it will stand impervious. Mr. Hey affirms that nothing but an earthquake could displace this bridge, as witness these figures: approximately 20 cars of cement have entered into the construction, 30,000 pounds of steel reinforcement, 3,000 yards of gravel, including the gravel on the roadway, 2,800 yards of filling dirt.

The crowning glory of the bridge, the feature which earliest commands attention and which the casual passer-by will be most conscious of, is the balustrade, completed last, necessarily. It is Colonial in style and admirably unites grace, symmetry and solidity. Aside from the spindles, which were molded separately, the balustrade is monolithic, having been cast in place and also reinforced. The design consists of a series of nine spindles separated by posts, while the spans below are indicated by broader blocks above in the balustrade. Apart from its massive size, which will hold it in place, the railing is attached to the side walk. The expansion joints come to the end of the block in every instance, instead of to the center, where it would be vital. The surmounting rail was designed by Mr. Hey and the trowel work done personally by him. It is O and G in shape. This precludes the possibility of any child or adult attempting to walk along its length, and it also provides no place for water or dust to lodge.

Mr. Hey, who has been in the bridge business since the genesis of concrete bridges has perhaps more good bridges to his credit than any other man of his age. He had built bridges in Iowa and Kansas, and one in South Bend at a cost of $90,000, besides other places, and states, "I can cheerfully say that I have never built any that has pleased me better." He said further, "Naturally some improvement occurs to us each time we build, and every one which has occurred to us thus far is in this bridge."

This is the last bridge which will be built by the Advance Construction company as such. The bridge department has been taken over by Mr. Hey and George W. Miller and the connection severed between them and this company. The final finish having been achieved as to bridge, grading, sodding, and seeding where to lay sod was impracticable, Mr. Hey has left for his home in Waterloo, Iowa.

FARMERS' FREE LIST BILL IS BEFORE HOUSE

Washington, April 25.—Just before the house adjourned after transacting considerable routine business regarding the organization of committees, Mr. Underwood of Alabama, the majority floor leader, ways and means committee chairman, laid before the body the farmers' free list bill, which is the next thing on the Democratic program.

He asked that debate be begun promptly, and that he and Representative Dalzell (Pa.) be permitted to control the time of their respective sides. This was agreed upon.

Some one asked Mr. Underwood how long he thought debate would run. He replied that he did not see how it could be concluded in less than four or five days, judging by the requests he had received from members for time. Later he said he would not be surprised if the talk would run for two weeks.

The house passed a resolution reported from the appropriations committee making mileage for the session available at once. This amounts to about $50,000. Other minor measures were passed upon.

June May See Congress Adjourn.

Washington, April 25.—Senator Root thinks that congress will adjourn by the middle of June. He came to the White House and talked the matter over with the president. As he left he said that he could see no reason for the session to last into midsummer.

Ypsilanti Trees In Bad Condition

FIRST STEPS IN CAMPAIGN TO SAVE THEM TO BE TAKEN WEDNESDAY.

A campaign in behalf of the trees of the city will take its initial step on Wednesday, when at eleven o'clock the citizens of Ypsilanti are invited to hear a lecture on Forestry by Professor Filibert Roth, head of the department of forestry at the University of Michigan.

Those who have investigated state that the trees in Ypsilanti must presently be given the attention their condition demands or the city will be denuded of this strong feature of civic beauty. If proper heed is given soon to this matter the downward tendency of the trees may be arrested, but intelligent care must be soon exercised in their behalf.

This lecture on forestry is most timely. On Arbor Day, May 2, something further is to be done, and plans have been laid for later dates beyond also.

QUITE RIGHT, SENATOR MILLER.

The Michigan Senate is not unlike the United States Senate has been—unrepresentative. And this accounts for the insistency of the people for the adoption of the principles of the initiative, the referendum and the recall. And because of the very democracy of these principles, the Michigan Senate seems to have been determined that the people should not have them.

Senator Miller is quoted as being unalterably opposed to these measures and to have said:

"In 1907 and again in 1909 the same measures came up for discussion in the house, and while the first year they did not receive much support, finally, in 1909, 40 representatives voted in favor of submitting the question to the people, and this year they have so agreed by an unanimous vote. While I believe that all of these measures are vicious, unsound and unconstitutional, I am in favor of submitting them to the dear people if they desire, but I am opposed to all three absolutely.

"I believe that if they are not passed this session they will come up again in 1913, and as a pure matter of policy and final settlement I propose to pass them as the only way to get the people satisfied, as eventually the questions will be submitted."

The senator is once right anyhow—"these questions will be submitted." They should have been submitted this session. The people have been demanding them for a long time. What decent reason can a senator urge for not submitting these questions to the people, to be adopted or rejected at the polls as the people may see fit? The senator in thus submitting them, if he is representing the people, absolves himself from responsibility by passing it up to them.

The state grange, farmers' clubs, Michigan Federation of Labor, and many other organizations, have adopted resolutions requesting that these questions be submitted to the people. And as we recall, the latest state platforms of all the parties declared for these principles, and Governor Osborn in line with the progressive governors and statesmen of several other states, favors them. They have been tried in several states and found satisfactory to everybody but the lobbying interests.

We regret to find Senator Newton reported as helping kill these measures.

The following little poem will be of interest to quite a number of our readers who have visited Daytona and Seabreeze, Florida. The Halifax River is about half a mile wide and separates the mainland from a peninsula of about the same width reaching from the river to the sea. Seabreeze is built on this peninsula. The author of these verses is a neighbor and hails from Cincinnati. His subject has aroused poetic fervor in many others and has attracted thousands of tourists and their cameras.—Ed.

THE HALIFAX RIVER.

(East Coast of Florida)

Have you seen the Halifax River,
That beautiful rift of the sea,
Where salt waves and fresh waters mingle
And prattle and dance with glee?
Have you stood by its wooded margin
When the breezes have ceased to blow,
And gazed on its mirrored surface
At the shadows cast below?

There are outlines of stately palmettoes,
Of knarled and moss-draped oaks
With sombre, broad spreading branches,
Where the tree-frog chatters and croaks.
Sweet perfumed magnolias are pictured
With vines and fluttering wings,
And clumps of spicy sweet-bay trees
Where the mocking bird nestles and sings.

Have you fished on the Halifax River,
When the breezes were balmy and slow,
And the dancing wavelets were laughing
O'er the beauties concealed below?
There the wiley trout lurks in the shadow
And eagerly darts at the fly,
Sheephead, flounder, whiting and bass
Are timid and stealthy and sly.

The mullet leap in the sunlight,
In silvery, shining array,
Porpoises frolic and roll and romp
Or take fright and scurry away;
But the wavelets continue their laughter,
And tauntingly seem to say,
"We give desciples of Walton
Only peeps at our grand display."

Have you sailed on the Halifax River,
When the white-winged yachts were afloat,
With the wind currents eagerly chasing
To make each one the faster boat?
How the spray leaps over the bowsprit
As the broad spreading canvas fills out,
And the winds and the waters in contest
Each strive the other to rout.

Now the sea-bird lends enchantment
As he swiftly wings his way,
And the stork on the shore, like a sentinel,
Stands eagerly watching for prey;
And the boats speed on more swiftly,
With hurrah and laughter and song;
For hearts are light and the day is bright,
And the winds are steady and strong.

Have you dreamed on the Halifax River,
When all was peaceful and still,
Save the mellow roar of the ocean,
Like the grind of eternity's mill?
It lulls you to sweetest slumber,
As the mind wanders onward, apace,
And you seem to renew last friendships,
Which are broken in life's hurried race.

You dream, and the dream seems real,
And all the world seems to fill
With justice and love and mercy
And "Peace on earth, good will;"
And the vision gives a promise
Of the future's brighter store,
When war and strife and avarice
Shall be on earth no more.

Have you gazed on the Halifax River,
When the sun seemed sinking to rest,
With picturesque cloud-lands and sky-seas,
In the roseate gloam of the west?
There are mountain peaks painted crimson,
With valleys of lilac and pearl.
From ships on seas opalescent
Fairy cloud-flags slowly unfurl.

There are islands with pale pink beaches,
Peninsulas purple and gray,
And headlands with prismatic shimmer
That shelter the rubicund bay;
It would seem that hosts of the angels
with sun-shine were painting the skies,
To reflect on the river's bright waters
And be mirrored back to our eyes.

Have you loved on the Halifax River
With the bright silver moon in the sky.
With the lights and shadows caressing,
As though loving had come from on high?
The whip-poor-will's song seems softened
As it floats from the hammock on shore,
And the rippling waters whisper
That loving shall be evermore.

The winds, the waves and the moonbeams,
All join in the night-bird's song,
And the world is filled with music,
Mellow and sweet and strong.
The ocean joins in the chorus,
With deep and impressive roar,
And you wish to live forever
On the beautiful Halifax shore.

RALPH TURNER BUTLER.

LIFE ON LONELY ICELAND

People in Bleak Northern Country Know What's Going on In the World.

A traveler in Iceland says that he journeyed more than fifty miles from the capital, Reykjavik, and saw but two or three farms in all that distance.

"During all this time," he says in the Youth's Companion, "I had not seen a sapling as big as a stalk of cat-o'-nine-tails. Extinct volcanoes surrounded us on every side. Dust storms swept down from their scarred sides. Distant gleams of glittering ice from the glaciers dazzled us when the sun shone upon them.

"But here, in a land where there is almost no fuel, and where few crops besides hay and turnips can be raised, in the land of the midnight sun in summer and the midday moon in winter, I found books and cheerful conversation, an outlook on life, and a knowledge of current events which I have not always found in populous cities.

"There are no schools, to be sure, outside of Reykjavik and one or two other small towns, for children cannot walk ten miles each way to a schoolhouse, and even such a schoolhouse would accommodate but two or three families. But the itinerant pedagogue goes about from house to house, carrying his store of learning with him, and leaving behind much intellectual stimulus and a desire to know what is going on beyond the bounds of the island.

"They were great chess players in the lonely farmhouse where we stayed and they were keen to play with us. Although my companion considered himself a fair chess player he was ignominiously beaten by the angular lady of the household. They had a Bible too and an Icelandic hymn book. We went away from our short visit to the lonely farmhouse of the Sog with the impression that the home life in the typical farms of Iceland might well be envied by dwellers in more favored climes."

Care For the Meadows.

In some sections of the country field stones are to be seen at this season numerously scattered over the surface of the meadows. They seriously interfere with haying machinery and numerous implements of tillage. Now is a good time to gather and remove them before they become hidden by vegetation. On land that is too moist they may be gathered into piles and later removed by team and wagon, though it is more economical to remove them at first hand if conditions will permit. If numerous small stones cover the ground it is a good plan to remove the larger ones and press the little ones down into the earth by means of a land roller, which is also beneficial to the grasses and clovers if these have been heaved somewhat by the frost. If but a few stones are found they may be gathered and carried in a box on the roller at the time of rolling.

It is not desirable to deposit stones around stumps or trees in the field or in fence corners. The piles continue to grow in size, utilizing much space and becoming unsightly as harborers of weeds and vermin. Select some place for the piling of stones where they may some day be easily accessible for building or road making purposes, or even some other economic uses. R. S. SHAW.

Be Good to the Farm Work Horse.

By Professor R. S. Shaw, Dean of Michigan Agricultural College.

As a rule the spring seeding time, during April, May and early June, is the hardest time of all the year for the farm work horse. He is often plunged into severe labor without proper preparatory feeding and treatment to give him strength and hardened muscles to properly endure severe strain. Much can be done by a thoughtful man to make the horse more comfortable at this season and lighten his burdens.

First of all he should have on abundance of nutritious feed, supplied at regular intervals. Sufficient grooming should be given at this time while the coat is shedding and the animal perspiring because of severe labor. See that the harness fits properly and does not gall the back, shoulders or neck and that it is adjusted so that the draft comes in the proper place. It is good economy to work the horse in gradually, and letting him rest occasionally at first may not be lost time. The temperament and skill of the driver are important factors in saving the horse from unnecessary work and worry; but few men use their brains to spare the horse, and there is a great dearth of really humane teamsters.

Agriculture Must Be More Intensive.

Necessity has forced Europe within the last sixty years to double its average yield of farm crops. Necessity is forcing the United States to study intensive methods. Average yields have not doubled within the last sixty years. They have gone the other way. New land production added to the old ordinary yield has kept pace with increasing population and permitted the exportation of grain. The increase of urban population, advance in farm values, scarcity and high cost of farm labor, and a greater demand for soil products, are compelling reasons for "more and better" per acre.

Repairing Farm Fences.

In order to have an efficient fence system on the farm it is necessary to do some rebuilding and repairing each year. The necessity for this becomes more urgent the greater the amount of livstock kept, and more especially if the farm is heavily stocked with cattle and horses which are hard on fences. The prompt replacement of a decayed post, a broken wire or damaged brace will do much to prevent further serious damage or ruin.

Big Prices For Well-Drained Land.

Lands well irrigated and leveled in the west are worth several hundred dollars per acre. If Michigan lands were as well drained by means of tile, and as well fitted on the surface they would produce nearly as much, and consequently command an equal valuation.

House Haunted? Low Rent!

When alien immigrants arrive in this country they often bring with them a stock of misapplied ingenuity. The tenant with a ghost is a game that is being played by foreigners in various parts of the United States, and, what is more, it is being played successfully.

The newcomer takes a house, and, after one or two payments of rent, complains that the premises are haunted. Quaking with simulated fear, he tells a tale of horror—of a headless man seen stalking from the coal cellar, a lady in white or of something invisible but groaning. Now, a ghost is the average landlord's prime aversion. Spectral visitors afford splendid subjects for gossip in the neighborhood, and prospective tenants seldom fail to hear and be warned off by the story.

Anxious that the report shall not get about, landlord confers with tenant, and in several such instances the result has been this—the tenant agrees to stay on, to say nothing about the matters to others and to put up with the ghost, providing the rent is substantially reduced.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Ypsilanti Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what an Ypsilanti citizen says:

Charles Fletcher, 415 W. Congress St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "As the result of kidney trouble, my health became much run down. I was bothered a great deal by pains in the small of my back and kidney's and I attributed my complaint to constant riding on the wagon. When I was on my feet I did not notice the trouble so much. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and highly colored. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills I was led to procure a box at Weinmann-Matthews Co.'s Drug Store and begin their use. I was careful to follow the directions closely and I received relief in a short time. Since then I have been in the best of health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Ocean.

Of all natural stores of water the ocean is, of course, the most abundant, and from it all other water may be said to be derived. From the surface of the ocean a continuous stream of vapor is rising up with the atmosphere, to be recondensed in the upper regions and precipitated as rain, snow and sleet. Some eight-elevenths of these precipitates return directly to the ocean; the rest, falling on land, collects into pools, lakes, rivers, or else penetrates the earth, perhaps to come to light again in springs and wells.

Which is the STIFF STAY Fence?

This picture shows why Jackson Stiff Stay Fence is the best.

The Stay wires are made from the same gauge (size) hard steel wire as the laterals. The Jackson knot is made from the same material and holds both in a grip that never loosens. The whole fence is stiff and strong, and being made with mechanical accuracy it always "sets right." Goes up or down hill as smoothly as on the level. No uneven line wires.

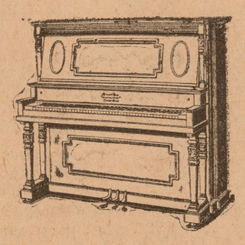
Grinnell Bros. Pianos

(OUR OWN MAKE)



This Piano is the product of our own splendidly equipped Factory—we know its genuine merit—know we are fully warranted in backing it with a guarantee unlimited as to time and practically unrestricted in scope but our reason for so doing is not based alone on knowledge on structural features. The years this Piano has been before the public have demonstrated that even under the most trying conditions it gives unqualified satisfaction. By every standard of worth it merits our guarantee, and for the same reason merits the serious consideration of every intending Piano purchaser who appreciates the value of a guarantee such as we give, and who is in search of an instrument certain to give complete and enduring satisfaction.

We sell this magnificent Piano at a price far lower than you would have to pay at any other House in the country for quality in any way similar—and we are enabled to do this because it is of our own manufacture and sold only through our own stores. Convenient payment terms make purchase easy for every family.

Our Parlor Grand (now one of our regular styles), has but recently been placed on the market. We invite your early investigation. It is a masterpiece of the Piano builder's art. Beauty of design, dependability and richness, depth and singing quality of tone make the Grinnell Bros. (our own make) Piano the ideal instrument for the discriminating music lover. REV. LEESON CONDUCTS EXAMINATION FOR M. E. MINISTRY CANDIDATES

Rev. H. A. Leeson has been conducting an examination today for candidates for the Methodist ministry. Ypsilanti was chosen as a centrolly-located city to which these undergraduates might conveniently repair for this purpose.

PROCESSION OF FORDS.

A rather unique exhibition of thriving business activity was made yesterday afternoon by the Schaible-Wiedman Auto company of Saline. On Saturday they had delivered four Ford touring cars to buyers in and about Saline, and yesterday they brought out four more of the same cars. By arrangement eleven new cars were brought into line and made a circuit through the country stopping at Manchester for supper and exciting the natives along the line of march by their chorus of honks.

One of the buyers was F. M. Beall of this city, who is this morning receiving instructions as driver.

THE COMING OF SPRING.

(By Maude W. James)

The earth fast locked in icybands,
The brooklet slumbering still,
The bare arms of the chestnut tree
Pierced clouds of wintry chill.

When at a touch of Fairy wand,
The icy chill gave way;
The brooklet woke to life and light,
And sang of summer gay.

The chestnut tree was richly dressed
In cloak of softest green.
The wild flowers covered all the earth
With gay and bright gem'd sheen.

The birds returned to greet the scenes
Where first they saw the light.
The clouds with opal tints were kissed
With sunshine all was bright.

All hail the fairy! joyous spring;
Greet her with gladsome song.
Her magic wand has put to rout
Old winter's reign so long.

So crown her queen, the fairy maid.
So old, yet always new.
Our hearts to her will always turn,
Our hearts to her are true.

MAUDE W. JAMES.

INTERESTING

us in their long service of helpfulness and example of a well-spent life is that the growing good of the world is partly dependent on how faithfully we follow our duty, be that duty great or small, splendid or obscure."

Mrs. DaRatt, chairman of the entertainment committee, in her report said, "While we have not earned as much money as in the preceeding year, opportunities have been less. Still we feel that it has not been an unsuccessful year. Every meeting has been interesting, and all have responded when called upon.

"The reception given to the Normal students was well attended by the students, and I feel that members of the society who were unable to be present missed an enjoyable evening. The Christmas market and supper were well attended and a fair sum of money realized.

"Our last meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Brown, and the change from our usual place of meeting made it a social event, which all were unanimous in declaring delightful."

The ladies of the Needle Work committee have hardly considered it worth while to make aprons, sun bonnets and fancy articles and the old-fashioned patchwork that no longer will sell, hardly at any price, but Mrs. Ayres took the chairmanship of it at the Christmas market, and the ladies made and donated many useful articles for sale that netted a good profit.

There is no report from the poor and sick committee this year of which Miss Spencer was chairman, but flowers have been sent from this society several times during the year to the sick, and also for funeral occasions and notes of sympathy to the bereaved. "Kind deeds often come back to the giver in fairer shapes than they go."

Mrs. Burton, chairman of the musical and literary committee, sent no report, but she and Miss Towner have at all times favored the aid when called upon by sending their pupils and furnishing a good musical program when desired.

Mrs. Gardam, chairman of the visiting committee, gave a verbal report and a very nice talk regarding the work of this committee.

Mrs. Fuller, chairman of the Normal committee, writes to the society: "Mrs. Swaine and I called upon quite a number of the church girls and found them unusually interesting and intelligent girls, and very much interested in the church and church work. They thought they could do more effective church work by forming themselves into a society, which they did, calling it ,"St. Luke's Normal Guild," I think the society numbers about 20."

The report of the Sunday school committee, Miss Gilbert, chairman, not being here this winter, was left for the rector, who labors zealously and earnestly for the cause.

DIXBORO.

Dixboro, April 25.—Harry Shankland was home from Jackson for the week end.

Adam Miller is very poorly. Dr. Georg, Sr., of Ann Arbor is attending him.

Miss Roehm of Ypsilanti visited at George Miller's the last of the week.

John Quackenbush has installed acetelyne light in his house.

Mrs. Maud Lemen went Saturday to spend a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Floyd Parker, at Mooreville.

Pot Luck Supper.

The L. A. S. will have a meeting and pot-luck supper at the home of Mrs. Clements next week Thursday afternoon.

Thank Offering Service.

The W. F. M. S. thank offering service will be held at the Free church Sunday, May 7, at two o'clock. Webster Pierce of Ypsilanti will give the address. All are cordially invited to be there and hear him.

MRS. ELEANOR HAZARD PEOCOCK GAINS FAVOR IN DETROIT

Mrs. Eleanor Hazard Peocock, in whom Ypsilanti people are warmly interested, achieved an unmistakable triumph when she appeared in a song recital at the Church of Our Father in Detroit. This was her first formal appearance in Detroit since her return from Berlin, and she was greeted with a perfect ovation. The program was similar to that which she gave in Ypsilanti a week or so ago, and the musical critic on the Detroit Times observes, in the course of a wholly laudatory notice, "It was a remarkable bit of song program-making in itself which Mrs. Peocock offered and it is doubtful if any other American woman singer who visits Detroit in recital work would or could have attempted such a program."

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2963 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
